

This guide is designed to help you evaluate our service offer and covers key information about:

- What services and financial products we are authorised to recommend;
- The costs associated with our services;
- How we and our associates are remunerated;
- Any potential conflict of interest; and
- Our internal and external dispute resolution processes and how you can access them.

Financial planning process

Upon offering financial advice we will provide you with an advice/disclosure document that will help you to assess our recommendations and determine whether you wish to rely on our advice. Prior to giving you advice we will make reasonable enquiries about your current financial situation and future needs to ensure we provide appropriate advice aligned to your particular circumstances.

Your Financial Adviser is required by law to record and verify details about your objectives, financial situation and needs. You are entitled to share with us as much or as little as you choose, however, should you choose not to provide full disclosure we will need to make you aware of the following:

- Where the service relates to financial products, we will warn you about possible consequences of the advice limitations so that you can make up your own mind if you will proceed; and
- Where this service relates to credit products, we are unable to provide assistance.

The advice/disclosure document will set out:

- Our personal advice and the reasoning which led to the advice;
- Fees and commissions we may receive; and
- Associations we have with financial product issuers or other parties which may have the potential to influence the advice we give you.

Agreeing to the subject matter of the advice

To make sure there is a clear understand of the services to be supplied to you we will listen to your instructions and your reasons for seeking advice. We will also determine your needs and objectives in order of priority and their importance to you. Once we have taken these factors into account we will discuss and agree the subject matter of our advice to you along with the cost of providing that advice. Our advice document will outline the subject matter of advice, clarifying what has been included and what has been excluded as agreed.

Where we recommend a particular financial product to you, we will give you information about that product by providing you with a Product Disclosure Statement. This will help you make an informed decision when considering the product.

If you do not wish to receive our advice, we may deal on your behalf by carrying out your instructions on an "execution only" basis.

If you do not obtain advice, you face the risk that the financial product(s) you select will not fully take into account your objectives, financial situation or needs.
